July 2026

Earlier this month, we were wondering why the rate of patients who find us by searching online seemed to have slowed, so we did some digging and quickly discovered that our Google listing had been incorrectly modified to read that we had permanently closed.

My initial assumption was that this was a technical glitch, but then I realized that our Google password had been changed, which made me wonder if we had been hacked. In any case, I fixed our listing to indicate that we are still in operation, and I consider this a lesson learned to keep a closer eye on our online presence.

Soolman Nutrition has been in continuous operation since April 2011, and Joanne and I are still here and happy to help if we can possibly be of service.

Thanks,
Jonah

Just tell me . . .

I want to give my patients what they want, but what happens when giving them what they want would be doing them a disservice?
